RECEIVER APPOINTED.

J. S. PERKINS IN CHARGE OF THE ARGENTINE BANK.

CARD FROM THE COUNTY BOARD.

HAS EVERY REASON TO BELIEVE THE INSTITUTION SOUND.

Appointment of Mr. Perkins Created Some Surprise in Argentine-Hitch in the Sale of Bonds-Hunters Arrested in Minnesota-Other News.

An application was filed in the district court yesterday for the appointment of a receiver of the defunct Argentine bank nd Judge Alden issued an order appointing J. S. Perkins to the place. Mr. Perkins nd was fixed at $50,000 and he will give it to-day and assume his duties immediately. His salary will be fixed by the court.

Judge Alden issued another order in structing the receiver to file a complete statement of the condition of the bank's affairs within the next ten days with the clerk of the district court. He also or dered the receiver to force collections and as soon as there was sufficient money on hand to declare a 25 per cent dividend. The appointment of Mr. Perkins was quite a surprise. The depositors living in Argentine signed a petition asking that The Krauss be appointed receiver, but it seems that the majority of the depositors reside in the country west of Argentine and they asked that Mr. Perkins be named.

The application for the appointment of a receiver was made by Assistant Attorney General A. A. Goddard, at the instance of the state bank commissioner, who closed the bank last Wednesday. According to a statement in the petition, the liabilities of the bank amount to $14,719.97, as follows: Individual deposits, subject to

To th Public:—Certain parties having seen fit to reflect upon us as having been negligent in connection with the deposit of the county money in the Argentine bank, we desire to make the following brief statement of the facts connected therewith:

bank, we desire to make the following brief statement of the facts connected therewith:

The bank was first designated as a county depository on April 27, 1895, when the board was composed of Messrs. Drought, Jacks and Merrill. At that time Major Drought had no sort of connection with the bank. On the expiration of the time for which the deposits had been awarded to the bank, no reason appearing to us why it should not be continued as a depository, it was so ordered, the board then being composed of the undersigned, Major Drought, having, however, prior to that time, purchased Mr. Trickett's stock in the bank, took no part either in awarding the deposits or approving the new bond, and the records of the board so show. The last order designating the Argentine bank as a depository was made on April 24, 1896, and was to continue in force for one year, or until the further order of the board. No one then doubted that the bank was as safe as any in the county; and, as the public well knows, the citizens of Argentine continued to deposit their money in the bank down to the day of its failure, supposing it to be sound and well managed. At the time of the last deposit, the members of the board acting, Messrs, Moore and Merrill, took a bond which they then and now deemed good and sufficient, exercising great care to see that the sureties were responsible and the bond good. Major Drought never good and sufficient, exercising great care to see that the sureties were responsible and the bond good. Major Drought never qualified or acted as a director of the bank. The board exercised as much care with respect to depositing the county money in the bank as did the many private persons who deposited their individual money with it, believing, as all did, that it was safe. The public need not be reminded that at all times banks are liable to fall and especially in times like the present. It will also be borne in mind that at the present juncture many persons have an interest in assailing the board in order to reflect upon Major Drought.

HUNTED ON GOVERNMENT LAND. Party of Sportsmen Get in Trouble in Minnesots.

Minnesota.

Word was received in this city yesterday to the effect that the hunting party which left this city a few days ago for a two weeks' trip to the Minnesota lakes had been arrested while hunting on an Indian reservation, and that they are now in the custody of the United States authorities.

The party is composed of County Treasurer Schnierle, Coroner Todd, Attorney J. O. Fife, Attorney Archibald Watson, Dr. H. M. Downs and George R. Periey.

The information concerning their arrest reached this city through a letter by the wife of one of the hunters. The party was being chaperoned by Mr. Periey, who is a former resident of Minnesota, and was supposed to know every foot of land in that state. He was taken along for the sole purpose of keeping the party out of trouble. They left the railroad at Walker, Minn., and the second day on their overland journey the entire party was placed under arrest while hunting on an Indian reservation. The two attorneys who were members of the party knew that it was a violation of the United States law to hunt on a reservation, and it is thought by the friends of the party in this city that Mr. Periey, the pilot, had forgotten the lay of the land.

The Spitzer company contracted for all of the bonds of the city at a premium of 1 per cent. The city has on hand $11,000 worth of bonds which were to be taken by the company on July 1, but in the communication the company refuses to accept them. It is an open violation of the company's contract with the city, and just what action will be taken on the part of the mayor and council is not known. The Spitzer say they will buy nothing but gold-bearing bonds at present.

In behalf of those who believe the time has come for Jackson county to take the convention and give us the cardi date, I second the nomiration of Judge date, I second the nomiration of Judge Young." (Applause.)

The legislative districts of Jackson county were then called. Dr. W. B. Johnson, of Sni-a-Bar township, withdrew the name of Finis C. Farr on hehalf of the First district. The Second district yielded its time to the Fifth district, and Judge Gibson took the platform amid cheers, to nominate Mr. Cowherd.

This limitation of the platform to one issue was made with the idea that the nominee of the convention should be thoroughly in harmony with this dominant ssue. In behalf of Jackson county and Prairie township I present the name of a man who will stand with both feet upon that platform, and carry it out when elected. I want a candidate in harmony with me and the people and the nominee of the Chicago convention. (Cheers.) I want a candidate who is young and strong and able to strengthen the arm of the next president of the United States (turning to the small picture of Mr. Bryan which hung by itself amid the decoration of flags and bunting. Neither Mr. Sewall nor Mr. Watson. was displayed, probably because the convention was in doubt as to which ticket Mr. Bryan is really running upon).

"The thirteen colonies." resumed Judge Gibson, "did not ask the consent of Euroce when they dumped the tea in Boston harbor, and this country is great enough to run its own affairs. (Cheers.) I want a man who talked free silver with me four years ago, and who presided over the meeting at which Governor Stone fired the first gun for free silver in Missouri. (Applause.) The man whom I shall present is a man whose honesty is beyond question, whose integrity is beyond cavil, who is known and recognized as being for free silver—the Democratic plowboy of Prairie township, William Strother Cowherd."

Then the court house crowd, which had been impatiently awaiting this point in the proceedings, rose en masse and cheered for several minutes.

The Third district was next called, Major Blake L. Woodson, the defeated candidate for the nomination at the primaries, took the platform.

"The bankers and brokers of this country," began the major in a voice which het ried in vain to make conversational, "have regulated our financial policy for a generation of men. At the end of that time we find one part of our currency stricken down and the other entirely in the control of Lombard street, England. Your grain and your gold are sold at the price fixed by Lombard street.

"There was one man in the Third legislative district who felt an ambition and an aspiration to take hold and correct the wrongs that have been committed upon the people. The result of the primary election was a voice which that or any other man did that platform, and carry it out when elected. I want a candidate in harmony with me and the people and the nominee of the

"We are entering." he said, "upon the greatest struggle of the century, and we shall achieve its greatest victory. (Cheers.) The victory will not come without the struggle. The money power of the civilized world is arrayed against us, represented by the late William McKinley, of Ohio. I cannot say that Major McKinley is running on any platform, for he is standing still, bound and gagged, pratting to visiting delegations of protection and of taxing the people to make them rich. (Laughter and appliause.) We have arrayed against us another combination, the heller-than-thou-Democrats. There were "Mr. Chairman and Gentiemen of the Convention:—I can find no fitting words in which to return to you my thanks when I consider the distinguished Democrats whose names have been mentioned in connection with this nomination. I am doubly grateful for the honor you have done me, gratitude speaks the language of the heart, not of the tongue. If a desire to serve you intelligently and a determination to serve you lovally can speak for me, I hope to show my gratitude by something better than empty words. I frankly confess I have long cherished the honorable ambition of representing this district in the halls of congress. sun, embracing in its agricultural products the fruits of both the temperate and torrid zones; its mountain ranges stored with precious metals and its valleys full of coal, to say that such a people are not strong enough to make a financial policy of their own is to say they are both fools and cowards. By the lamp of history we know weaker nations have maintained both metals at a parity and we have no fear of our ability to do the same.

"If we coined all surplus bullion produced last year from the world's mines it would increase our money about $1.56 per head, about one-third as much as it has been decreased since Novomber, 1893. So, when they threaten us with the silver of the world, yell them we welcone it. We shall trade them the product of the farm or factory for their bullion, coin it into dollars and send them singing into the pockets of the farmer and laborer, carrying with them a new era of prosperity and plenty. We'll meet the dishonest cry of an honest dollar with the absolute proof of a dishonest dollar. When they cry for the protection to the poor. When they talk about repudiation and the rights of the creditor, we quote them the prophetic words of the immortal Blaine and ask why they have doubled the burden on the back of the debtor. But while we talk of money, let us not forget that money talks. We must meet in this campaign the crganized and aggressive wealth of two hemispheres. This is to be a battle royal and to the death. Money will be master of mene, or men must master the forces of money.

"A dollar growing in value and a nation." Democratic Convention. William S. Cowherd was born on the family farm between Lee's Summit and Blue Springs, September 1, 1860. This farm was his grandfather's, then his father's and is now his. He attended the public schools at Lee's Summit and then went schools at Lee's Summit and then went to the state university at Columbia, from which he graduated in 1881. He was graduated from the university law school in 1882 and then began the practice of his profession in this city. In 1884 he was appointed assistant prosecuting attorney by Prosecutor Blake L. Woodson. He remained in the office until 1888. In 1890 he was appointed assistant city counselor by Robert L. Yeager. He served two years. He was elected mayor in 1892. "A dollar growing in value and a nation growing in strength never yet flourished on the same soil. The only man satisfied with the existing standard, to which the Republican party stands pledged, is the man who is rich in follars dearer than they ever were before. The man who is rich in property as well as he whose only capital is a stout heart and willing hand demands that there be sufficient blood in the veins of commerce that it shall not only beat at the heart, but tingle at the finger tips.

"Already the enemy has abandoned the hope of the farmers' vote and is now attacking the camp of the laborer. When Bourke Cockran announced to New York that he could only hope to increase his income by a further fall in the price of the necessities of life, he announced the same policy as Mr. Stilwell when he asked why the laborer should object to potatoes at 8 cents a bushel. They have abandoned the farmer and are now singing their siren's song of selfishness to the laborer. But the laborer of to-day is both enlightened and patriotic. There is no more unselfish voter walks the earth than he who earns his daily bread by daily work. Bone and blood and sinew are ever more generous of its own than wealth is of its money. Whenever the nation has demanded sarrificial victims, flesh and blood have gone to the front, while money sought a coward's safety in flight or a miser's portion in usury. Neither is the laborer blind. He knows the fires will not be lit at the forge while the fields lie fallow. He knows the best market for the factory must be found on the farm, And in a country like ours, based on agriculture, you cannot have prosperity while agriculture is depressed. Little need to tell the laborer what a dollar busy until you provide employment. Then both labor and employment to procure the dollar. At the last meeting of council 57. A. P. A. the following resolutions were unanimous-be indorsed, and that copies of these resolutions be sent to the various councils throughout the state and a copy be given to the daily Journal."

Many warm speeches were made against the action of the commissioners, which resulted in a motion being adopted calling an indignation meeting to be held by the citizens of Jackson county at Farlow's grove, on the electric line, near Independence, on August 27. A special rate has been secured of 15 cents for the round trip from Kansas City and 10 cents from Independence over the electric line.

The advisory board of the A. P. A. met last evening, concurred in the proceedings of Council 57 and arranged for another indignation meeting, which will be held in Kansas City in the near future. The time has not yet been fixed.

Mayor Jones is still receiving congratulations, both in person and by letter, for his courageous stand against the action of the Democratic members of the police board.

"Among those who have called," said Private Secretary E. Mont Reily, yesterday, "was a prominent Democrat. He talked with me, because the mayor was engaged at the time. After the preliminaries of the congratulation, he asked me if I had a McKinley button. I told him no, and he said:

"Well, never mind. I'll get one down town. And now I want to say that I like you people's style and I'm going to vote with you this fall. I'll bet I've heard twenty-five Democrats say the same thing to-day, and it's all on account of the stand taken by Mayor Jones. I'm a Democrat, or have been, but I can't swallow everything the party does."

Cowherd is a fitting supplement to that of William J. Bryan. He stands the gallant young tribune of the people. What is our duty, the solemn responsibility resting upon us? (Volemn. Clerk.) However, in the condition of the people. What is our duty, the solemn responsibility resting upon us? (Volemn.) A resolution of that relief. about 100 in the party, which was joined at Independence by Colonel John N. Southern and a number of "rooters." All Southern and a number of "rooters." All the prominent members of the court house crowd and their affiliators were in the party, including Joe Shannon, Hugh J. McGowan, W. C. Scarritt, Henry Crawford, Judge James Gibson, several of the O'Flahertys of course, Judge J. E. Gulnotte, Judge W. B. Teasdale, John Sullivan, Colonel R. L. Yeager, Frank Phillips, Frank J. Shinnick, John O'Grady, John P. Gilday, George Holmes, E. E. Porterfield and Henry M. Stonestreet.

All of these shining lights of the free silver Democracy, except Judge Gibson, were only two years ago doing all in their power to oppose Governor Stone and the free silver sentiment in the party. At the state convention at the Auditorium two years ago they were among the most untiring workers for Francis and the gold standard wing of the party, and not until the Chicago convention did they flop over entirely to the free silver cause, and then only to down the original free silver Democratic leaders in Jackson county. In their efforts to prevent the committal of their party to the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 15 to 1 they were aided by Wiley O. Cox, Bernard Corrigan, Sheriff John P. O'Neill, Frank F. Rozzelle and the nomine of the congressional convention, William S. Cowherd.

Candidate Cowherd was well represented by his two law partners, Teasdale and Ingraham, and his nephew, Sam B. Strother, to say nothing of the numerous Strother, to say nothing of the numerous Strothers scattered through the various delegations.

The Brown faction was conspicuous by its absence and the victorious court house crowd had everything its own way. Major B. L. Woodson, Finis C, Farr and John N. Southern, the defeated Jackson county candidates for the nomination at the primaries, were lugubrious members of the party, but as they were not laboring under any strain of suspense, they managed to keep more cheerful than they otherwise would.

Arrived at Odessa the Jackson county delegation marched to the Phoenix opera house headed by the Oak Grove band. The usual caucusi the prominent members of the court house
